

Sir Crousley Crousley-Wotten

Can you draw a picture of Sir Crousley, when he was a boy, sitting with the road-mender while he was having his dinner?

1. When Sir Crousley Crousley-Wotten was a little boy, he spent most of his summers in S_____.
2. Around the large estate where he lived, there worked a r____-mender called John Dymock.
3. The boy liked watching Mr Dymock break up the s_____ with which he mended the road.
4. At 12'o'clock each day, the road-mender had his dinner and Sir C_____ loved to sit with him.
5. Mr Dymock often shared his lunch with the boy and soon the boy began to bring other food from the big h_____.
6. The road-mender always said g_____ before and after his meals. After dinner, he would tell the boy st_____ about the great men of God who had lived in S_____ in years gone by.
7. Eventually Sir Crousley grew up and had an important job in I_____.
8. Years later he returned to Scotland. The road-mender had long gone home to H_____, but Sir Crousley found the large stone on which they used to sit, and had it carried back to E_____, and had these words inscribed on it....

*A stone of remembrance, the daily resting place,
While he was yet alive, of
JOHN DYMOCK
Road-mender and Man of God,
In the Parish of Radrock
Who died in 1876, aged 70*

'THOU SHALT BE IN LEAGUE
WITH THE STONES OF THE FIELD'